Background: Female Foeticide in India

- Social discrimination against women and a preference for sons has been promoted.
- Researchers for the Lancet journal based in Canada and India stated that 500,000 girls were being lost annually through sex-selective abortions.
- The Pre-conception and Pre-natal Diagnostic Techniques (PCPNDT) Act passed in 1994 – making determination and sex-selective abortion illegal.
- PCPNDT Act has been poorly enforced by authorities.
Haryana: An Overview

- economically prosperous but
- lowest sex ratio in the country (877 females per 1000 males, and down to 762 women)
- high Infant Mortality Rate (IMR) of 102
- lower literacy rate for women 66.80%.
- marriage before 18 yrs - 59.9%
- 258 rape cases
- 3138 dowry torture cases
- 30 dowry deaths
- 45 per cent children suffering from malnutrition
Objectives of programme

• Reduction in cases of female foeticide in communities
  -To establish cluster teams of community level stakeholders
  -To bring about attitudinal changes for pro-female preferences amongst families.

• Engage institutions of higher education, especially girls colleges
  -to address the practice of foeticide within families, communities, and other institutions
  -to collaborate with other stakeholders – government departments, medical officers
Types of partnership:

PRIA partnered with

- Twelve post graduate colleges for women
- Community/citizen/religious leaders, elected representatives
- Civil Society Organisations
- District level administrative bodies
PRIA’s Initiatives

• Orientation programme with students, community youth, community leaders, district officials

• Outreach with the community members: Door-to-Door Campaigns involving community and college youth, women’s groups

• Networking with Community Based Organisations and other NGOs

• Liaisoning with District-Level Monitoring Committee of PCPNDT Act

• Involvement of media for awareness raising & coverage of campaign

• Monthly meetings of cluster teams & support to cluster members

• Mobilizing community support through field animators for sustainability
Outcomes and Impacts

- College students (including boys) took a pledge that they themselves would never engage in or encourage such acts.

- Couples with only daughters began to proudly share that they had no intention to have more children in the desire to produce a male heir.

- Families began to avail of various schemes for the girl child related to education and health.

- Educational institutions continued with efforts of gender sensitization with their students, families and the communities.

- Community took initiatives to monitor pregnant women.
Innovations

A multi-stakeholder partnership – Postgraduate women’s colleges were active among community and local bodies.

Pedagogical approaches:

- learning exercises and games, group discussions,
- interviews with women in reproductive years to understand their perspectives and dilemmas
- wall writing events
- village walks
- street theatre
- seminars involving community, youth and academia
